

Special Issue

Low and Zero Energy Highly Performing Buildings

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue is dedicated to developments in low energy and zero energy buildings and in major renovations. Articles dealing with new low energy, nearly zero energy (NZEB), zero energy ready, zero energy, plus energy, and other high performing buildings, as well as with deeply integrated energy renovations are welcomed. The topics to be covered may include but are not limited to the following: energy performance predictions and measurements, performance of HVAC and other technical systems, calculation methodologies, cost optimality, national requirements, and ventilation and indoor climate analyses in buildings.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Energies is an international, open access journal in energy engineering and research. The journal publishes original papers, review articles, technical notes, and letters. Authors are encouraged to submit manuscripts which bridge the gaps between research, development and implementation. The journal provides a forum for information on research, innovation, and demonstration in the areas of energy conversion and conservation, the optimal use of energy resources, optimization of energy processes, mitigation of environmental pollutants, and sustainable energy systems.
