Selected Papers from 28th International Conference on Mixed Design of Integrated Circuits and Systems—MIXDES 2021

Message from the Guest Editor

The MIXDES conference series began in 1994 and has since been organised annually in major Polish cities. The conference has been held annually without any interruption, and gathers participants from more than 25 countries. The MIXDES conference is one of the largest in this field in Central Europe, encompassing interdisciplinary research in design, modelling, simulation, testing, and manufacturing in various areas, such as micro- and nanoelectronics, semiconductors, sensors, actuators, biomedical applications, and power devices. The main organiser of all of these conferences is the Department of Microelectronics and Computer Science of the Technical University of Lodz, Poland, headed by Prof. Andrzej Napieralski. This Special Issue presents extended versions of selected papers from MIXDES 2021—28th International Conference on Mixed Design of Integrated Circuits and Systems that will be held on 24–26 June 2021.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Energies is an international, open access journal in energy engineering and research. The journal publishes original papers, review articles, technical notes, and letters. Authors are encouraged to submit manuscripts which bridge the gaps between research, development and implementation. The journal provides a forum for information on research, innovation, and demonstration in the areas of energy conversion and conservation, the optimal use of energy resources, optimization of energy processes, mitigation of environmental pollutants, and sustainable energy systems.
