

Special Issue

Economic and Policy Challenges of Energy

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to present and disseminate the most recent advances related to energy economic and policy challenges.

Topics of interest for publication include but are not limited to:

- Changes in energy consumption trends
- Developments in trends in the consumption of goods in response to changes in the energy market
- Crises as opportunities for development and drivers of innovation
- Evolution of energy supply chains and industry in general
- The role of energy security and energy self-sufficiency in the national economy
- The crisis as an opportunity for renewable energy or a return to traditional sources
- Green transformation trends
- Developments in technologies related to the storage of green energy surpluses
- Geothermal energy is underestimated and should be supported in Europe in the future
- Deglobalization as a reaction to the crisis and its consequences for the world economy

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Energies is an international, open access journal in energy engineering and research. The journal publishes original papers, review articles, technical notes, and letters. Authors are encouraged to submit manuscripts which bridge the gaps between research, development and implementation. The journal provides a forum for information on research, innovation, and demonstration in the areas of energy conversion and conservation, the optimal use of energy resources, optimization of energy processes, mitigation of environmental pollutants, and sustainable energy systems.

Editor-in-Chief

Prof. Dr. Enrico Sciubba

Department of Mechanical and Industrial Engineering, University
