

Special Issue

Economic Aspects of Low Carbon Development

Message from the Guest Editors

The editors of this Special Issue invite authors studying economic dependencies and regularities and cause and effect relationships of various economic phenomena concerning a low-carbon economy. Research can cover both global and regional issues. Topics may also apply to urban and rural areas. Suggested topics include, among others, the following:

- Clean energy production and supply;
- Creating new markets in the field of low-carbon energy technologies;
- Resource recycling and reuse;
- Low-carbon research and innovation;
- Economic aspects of limiting emissions of harmful substances and CO<sub>2</sub> into the air;
- Energy management system;
- The relationship between building energy supply and demand;
- Institutions and business strategies for a transition to a low-carbon economy;
- Co-evolution of technical, environmental and social systems;
- Research on low-carbon industry;
- Low-carbon sustainable agricultural practices.

We invite you to submit your articles.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Energies is an international, open access journal in energy engineering and research. The journal publishes original papers, review articles, technical notes, and letters. Authors are encouraged to submit manuscripts which bridge the gaps between research, development and implementation. The journal provides a forum for information on research, innovation, and demonstration in the areas of energy conversion and conservation, the optimal use of energy resources, optimization of energy processes, mitigation of environmental pollutants, and sustainable energy systems.
