

Special Issue

Energy and Environmental Efficiency of Regional Economics

Message from the Guest Editors

The purpose of this Special Issue is to present and disseminate prospective and applied advances related to all theories, policies, models, and designs related to energy and environmental efficiency. Possible topics for publication include, but are not limited to:

- Analysis of the future industrial development and consumption potential of new energy sources such as solar, wind and biomass
- Energy transition in the context of green and low-carbon environment
- Energy prediction modeling method
- Energy optimization and decision making
- Data modeling and policy evolution analysis
- Energy efficiency measurement under environmental constraints
- Sustainable application of energy

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Energies is an international, open access journal in energy engineering and research. The journal publishes original papers, review articles, technical notes, and letters. Authors are encouraged to submit manuscripts which bridge the gaps between research, development and implementation. The journal provides a forum for information on research, innovation, and demonstration in the areas of energy conversion and conservation, the optimal use of energy resources, optimization of energy processes, mitigation of environmental pollutants, and sustainable energy systems.

Editor-in-Chief
