Special Issue

Black Hole Information Problem: Challenges and Perspectives

Message from the Guest Editors

The aim of this Special Issue is to further stimulate progress in the field of black hole information loss research and to collect articles and short reviews contributing to the development in this field. We welcome submissions on theoretical advancements in topics including but not limited to those mentioned below:

- Hawking Radiation and Information Retrieval
- Firewall Hypothesis
- Soft Hair and Memory of Black Holes
- AdS/CFT Correspondence and Holography
- Quantum Error Correction in Quantum Information Theory
- Black Hole Remnants
- Quantum Tunneling and Information Recovery

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The concept of entropy is traditionally a quantity in physics that has to do with temperature. However, it is now clear that entropy is deeply related to information theory and the process of inference. As such, entropic techniques have found broad application in the sciences.

Entropy is an online open access journal providing an advanced forum for the development and/or application of entropic and information-theoretic studies in a wide variety of applications. Entropy is inviting innovative and insightful contributions. Please consider Entropy as an exceptional home for your manuscript.
