Selected Papers from the Distillers Grains Symposium

Message from the Guest Editor

The annual national symposium will provide the latest information and issues regarding distiller grain marketing/merchandising, animal nutrition, processing technologies, and governmental regulations. Distiller grains have rapidly increased to over 40 MM tons, and, along with new opportunities, makes this a must-attend meeting to stay current and knowledgeable. Selected papers that presented at the conference are invited to submit their extended versions to this Special Issue of the journal Fermentation after the conference. All submitted papers will undergo our standard peer-review procedure and fast publication. Accepted papers will be published in open access format in Fermentation and collected together in this Special Issue website. There are no publication charges for this journal in 2017 and 2018.
