Bioactive Compounds and Antioxidant Activity in Functional Foods

Message from the Guest Editors

The divergence from synthetic compounds towards more natural bioactives has been an emerging trend for the last two decades. The formulation of natural supplements with food ingredients is a hot topic of discussion for formulators, processors, and legislators. This Special Issue will include recent research and review articles covering board areas of food bioactive compounds and their profiling in terms of antioxidants and phenolic composition. This issue will also cover articles in the areas of nanoencapsulation and emulsification regarding the delivery of food bioactives, as well as topics regarding the legal perspectives of food antioxidants.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Foods (ISSN 2304-8158) is an open access and peer reviewed scientific journal that publishes original articles, critical reviews, case reports, and short communications on food science. Articles are released monthly online, with unlimited free access. Currently, Foods has been indexed by the Science Citation Index Expanded (SCIE - Web of Science), PubMed, and Scopus. Our aim is to encourage scientists, researchers, and other food professionals to publish their experimental and theoretical results as much detail as possible. We therefore invite you to be one of our authors, and in doing so share your important research findings with the global food science community.
