The Human Senses in Food and Healthy Eating: Recent Advances and Future Perspectives

Message from the Guest Editor

We would like to bring to you a very special invitation from Foods' Sensory and Consumer Science Section. We are launching a Special Issue dedicated exclusively to the publication of the highest-quality future-focused review papers addressing the human senses and their importance in future food and healthy eating, presented by the most experienced and recognized researchers in relevant fields. Researchers in sensory and consumer science, psychology, physiology, neuroscience, and beyond, and in particular those working in cross-disciplinary contexts are encouraged to submit reviews. Highly cited and recognized researchers may apply for a full waiver or discount from the Foods editorial office in relation to submissions to this Special Issue. We expect to assemble a Special Issue that will constitute a marker of the most recent trends and of the most important achievements to date that will make a major impact in the future understanding of human senses in food and healthy eating.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Foods (ISSN 2304-8158) is an open access and peer reviewed scientific journal that publishes original articles, critical reviews, case reports, and short communications on food science. Articles are released monthly online, with unlimited free access. Currently, Foods has been indexed by the Science Citation Index Expanded (SCIE - Web of Science), PubMed, and Scopus. Our aim is to encourage scientists, researchers, and other food professionals to publish their experimental and theoretical results as much detail as possible. We therefore invite you to be one of our authors, and in doing so share your important research findings with the global food science community.
