Special Issue

Advanced Research on Intelligent Food Packaging

Message from the Guest Editor

With the growing demand for food safety, quality, and sustainability, intelligent packaging has emerged as a transformative technology in the food industry. This Special Issue aims to showcase cutting-edge research and innovations in the development and application of intelligent packaging systems. Topics of interest include, but are not limited to, smart sensors and indicators, bioactive and bioactive materials, nanotechnology applications, biodegradable and sustainable packaging, as well as traceability and realtime monitoring technologies. We welcome original research articles, reviews, and case studies that address both scientific advances and practical implementations. By compiling the latest discoveries and trends, this issue seeks to foster interdisciplinary collaboration and contribute to the future of food preservation and safety.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Foods (ISSN 2304-8158) is an open access and peer reviewed scientific journal that publishes original articles, critical reviews, case reports, and short communications on food science. Articles are released monthly online, with unlimited free access. Currently, Foods has been indexed by the Science Citation Index Expanded (SCIE - Web of Science), PubMed, and Scopus. Our aim is to encourage scientists, researchers, and other food professionals to publish their experimental and theoretical results as much detail as possible. We therefore invite you to be one of our authors, and in doing so share your important research findings with the global food science community.
