Climate Stress Impacts on Forest Ecosystem Water Dynamics

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue seeks to enhance the synthesis of our process-based understanding of water dynamics in various forest ecosystems under climate-induced stressors. We invite the research and scientific community to contribute by submitting innovative studies on the following topics:

- Hydrological cycles and forest ecosystems;
- Forest water resilience in a changing climate;
- Vegetation's adaptation to water stress;
- Drought and soil water availability;
- Biodiversity and water interactions:
- Extreme weather events and forest water dynamics;
- Hydrological and erosion modeling;
- Remote sensing in forest hydrology;
- Post-fire hydrological impacts;
- Water-related ecosystem services;
- Water-related management practices;
- Tree line shift and climate change.
