Special Issue

Wood Processing, Modification and Performance

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue on "Wood Processing, Modification, and Performance" aims to advance the understanding and application of wood as a natural, green, and sustainable material. It focuses on innovative methods for enhancing wood properties through chemical, physical, and mechanical modifications. The research topics suitable for submissions include novel wood processing technologies, wood preservation treatments, durability improvements, and the effects of environmental factors on wood product performance. The studies included will provide valuable theoretical and practical insights into the use of wood in industries such as construction and furniture, contributing to the sustainable development of wood materials and improving their durability and functionality.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Forests (ISSN 1999-4907) is an international and cross-disciplinary, scholarly forestry journal. The distinguished editorial board and refereeing process ensures the highest degree of scientific rigor and review of all published articles. Original research articles and timely reviews are released online, with unlimited free access. Our goal is to have Forests be recognized as one of the foremost publication outlets for high quality, leading edge research in this broad and diverse field. We therefore invite you to be one of our authors, and in doing so share your important research findings with the global forestry community.
