Forestry Economy Sustainability and Ecosystem Governance

Message from the Guest Editors

We welcome interdisciplinary contributions across forestry, economics, environmental management, policy science, and ecology, covering (but not limited to):

- sustainable forestry economic model innovations;
- inclusive benefit-sharing in forest ecosystem governance;
- market-based tools (e.g., carbon trading, eco-compensation) and policy instruments for sustainable forestry;
- forest tenure systems, social perception, community participation, and community livelihood;
- policy synergy between forest conservation and rural poverty alleviation;
- digital technology applications in forest resource monitoring, carbon accounting, and governance efficiency;
- climate-resilient forest management linking carbon sequestration and economic returns;
- forest ecosystem resilience under climate change; forestry industrial transformation (e.g., bioeconomy, non-timber forest products) under ecological constraints and circular economy in the forest product industry;
- valuation and integration of non-market forest ecosystem services;
- cross-scale governance collaboration for transboundary forests;
- impacts of global demand for sustainable forest products on local governance.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Forests (ISSN 1999-4907) is an international and cross-disciplinary, scholarly forestry journal. The distinguished editorial board and refereeing process ensures the highest degree of scientific rigor and review of all published articles. Original research articles and timely reviews are released online, with unlimited free access. Our goal is to have Forests be recognized as one of the foremost publication outlets for high quality, leading edge research in this broad and diverse field. We therefore invite you to be one of our authors, and in doing so share your important research findings with the global forestry community.
