Joint IUFRO 7.02.02 “Foliage, shoot and stem diseases of forest trees” and 7.03.04 “Diseases and insects in forest nurseries” Working Parties Meeting

Message from the Guest Editors

While forest threats are acting on a global scale, new and invasive diseases have been reported at an increasing rate, and are predicted to be even more frequent in the future. Both natural and managed forest ecosystems are affected. Forest nurseries are also among the most vulnerable environments affected by pathogens. To reduce losses, relevant responses to such diseases should be associated with proper understandings of biological concepts concerning pathogens and the elaboration of countermeasures for their control. The joint IUFRO meeting aims to share and discuss recent research experiences that are fundamental for addressing practical problems, as forest diseases affect ecosystems across national borders.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Forests (ISSN 1999-4907) is an international and cross-disciplinary, scholarly forestry journal. The distinguished editorial board and refereeing process ensures the highest degree of scientific rigor and review of all published articles. Original research articles and timely reviews are released online, with unlimited free access. Our goal is to have Forests be recognized as one of the foremost publication outlets for high quality, leading edge research in this broad and diverse field. We therefore invite you to be one of our authors, and in doing so share your important research findings with the global forestry community.
