

Special Issue

Public Good Games

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue of Games is dedicated to public good games. Potential topics include, but are by no means limited to, heterogeneity in giving behavior, the influence of social norms, punishment, exclusion, or framing on efficiency in providing public goods, learning in games, evolutionary origins of cooperation and strategic leadership. We also welcome submissions on relevant applications such as charitable giving, crowdfunding and environmental issues. Both theoretical and experimental contributions will be considered. Well motivated literature reviews or appraisals of existing literature are also welcomed.
