Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

The planned Special Issue of the journal Genealogy aims to trace these questions for the period after 1945, a period characterized by various migration and flight movements that can be linked to the end of the war, to labor migration, which became especially important in the 1960s, and to migrant groups seeking asylum since the 1980s. We welcome contributions that deal with these and related questions concerning politics, race and ethnicity, nationhood, affiliation, class, gender, sexuality, and cultural identity in historical development since the Second World War. An interdisciplinary perspective (drawing upon sociology, ethnology, communication and media studies, cultural, political and legal studies, etc.) would be especially welcome. We also seek contributions that treat trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific connections as well as those that bring the global south, especially Africa, South America, and the Caribbean into the conversation.

Message from the Editorial Board

Genealogy is a scholarly journal that provides a venue for academic, cutting-edge contributions to the interdisciplinary field of genealogy studies. We welcome contributions that examine genealogies of family lineage, use genealogical considerations and methods in examining other historical processes (including migration histories, personal, social, and national identities, and social institutions) or study the construction of genealogical narratives. The journal is also interested in biographical studies and their contribution to the understanding of broader social and historical phenomena.

Author Benefits

Open Access:— free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, ESCI (Web of Science), and many other databases.

Rapid Publication: manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 30.3 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 4.5 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2023).
