Secularism, Multiculturalism and Race–Religion Entanglements

Message from the Guest Editors

In line with this aim, we seek both theoretical and theoretically informed empirical papers from all disciplines, and all geographical contexts. Possible topics could include (but are not limited to) the following:

- Genealogical studies of the race–religion constellation in relation to regimes of secularism and/or multiculturalism.
- The role of ‘religio-secularism’ in shaping racism.
- Islamophobia, antisemitism or antizyganism.
- Political theological analyses of liberalism, secularism and/or multiculturalism.
- Nationalism in relation to religion and race.
- The nexus between modernity, coloniality and secularity.
- Anti-racism activism in relation to secularism and/or multiculturalism.
- Liberalism’s engagement with religion and race.
- The politics of recognition.
- Neutrality and/or equality as normative standards for racial or religious (in)justice.
- The (dis)connections between state-led institutional programmes, societal discourse and political theories.
- Tensions between ideal and non-ideal theory in secularist and multiculturalist theory.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Genealogy is a scholarly journal that provides a venue for academic, cutting-edge contributions to the interdisciplinary field of genealogy studies. We welcome contributions that examine genealogies of family lineage, use genealogical considerations and methods in examining other historical processes (including migration histories, personal, social, and national identities, and social institutions) or study the construction of genealogical narratives. The journal is also interested in biographical studies and their contribution to the understanding of broader social and historical phenomena.
