Stories of Violence, War, and Displacement: Intersections of Life, Research, and Knowledge Production

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue of Genealogy welcomes articles on the topic: "Stories of Violence, War, and Displacement: Intersections of Life, Research, and Knowledge Production". Contributors are invited to reflect upon the intersections between their research on violence, war and/or displacement, and their own life trajectories. It welcomes both essay and narrative forms of writing or a combination of the two to accommodate different research and life contexts, as well as enquiry approaches. Some of the potential areas of interest for this Special Issue include, but are not limited to, the following topics:

- positionality in research
- lived experiences and life stories
- (war/state) violence
- displacement/implacement
- ethnic/national/indigenous/racial identity
- resistance and agency
- embodied knowledge
- epistemic violence
- coloniality of power and knowledge

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Genealogy is a scholarly journal that provides a venue for academic, cutting-edge contributions to the interdisciplinary field of genealogy studies. We welcome contributions that examine genealogies of family lineage, use genealogical considerations and methods in examining other historical processes (including migration histories, personal, social, and national identities, and social institutions) or study the construction of genealogical narratives. The journal is also interested in biographical studies and their contribution to the understanding of broader social and historical phenomena.
