Advances and Innovations in Geomatics: Celebrating a New Chapter—First Impact Factor and CiteScore Received

Message from the Guest Editors

We are delighted to announce a milestone achievement for Geomatics—the journal has received its first Impact Factor of 2.8, ranked Q2 in both GEOGRAPHY, PHYSICAL and REMOTE SENSING categories, and first CiteScore of 5.1, ranked Q1 in both Earth and Planetary Sciences (miscellaneous) and Engineering (miscellaneous), a testament to the growing recognition and academic excellence of our publication. This success would not have been possible without the valuable contributions of our authors, reviewers, and editorial board members. To mark this exciting occasion, we are launching a Special Issue showcasing cutting-edge research and innovative applications in the field of Geomatics.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Geomatics is the modern adaptation of traditional surveying, mapping, and their related skills. In geomatics, Information and Communication Technology (ICT) and digitization play a focal role. Geomatics is the discipline that integrates the tasks of gathering, storing, processing, modeling, analyzing, and delivering georeferenced information. Geomatics produces, validates, and represents georeferenced data that helps to provide services that meet the needs of society.
