Current Snow Science Research 2025–2026

Message from the Guest Editors

We seek papers on any snow-related topics, including the characteristics and variability of snowpack properties, manual and remote sensing measurements of snowpack properties, snowpack modeling, snow as a hazard, snow hydrology, snow ecosystems, snow recreation. We especially welcome papers on new research that advances our understanding of snow and related phenomena. Papers presented at recent conferences, such as the Eastern Snow Conference, Western Snow Conference, and the International Association of Cryospheric Sciences < <https://baco-25.org/>>, will also be considered.
