Research on Health Disparities in the Global Population

Message from the Guest Editors and are launching a Special Issue on “Research on Health Disparities in the Global Population” for the journal Healthcare. This Special Issue aims to raise awareness and understanding of which groups are most vulnerable and help motivate increased efforts to intervene at the local, national, and global levels to best address health disparities and inequalities. We would like to invite submissions on pertinent topics and research questions that reflect diverse international perspectives, cultural backgrounds, and societal structures for this Special Issue. Clinical trials or patient case reports are also welcome if they engage stakeholders and have the potential to reduce the burden of disease on vulnerable populations. We look forward to receiving your contributions.
