Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder: Co-Occurring Disorders and Integrated Treatment

Message from the Guest Editor

The Special Issue: "Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder: Co-Occurring Disorders and Integrated Treatment" invites you to submit a paper for our special issue, to be published in the Healthcare journal. If accepted, your paper will be joined by other investigators, practitioner-scholars, and theorists who have addressed some aspects of the PTSD diagnosis, assessment, and treatment, including other, co-occurring mental disorders. This Special Issue aims to assemble papers announcing, recruiting, and publishing new papers on PTSD and co-occurring mental disorders and their treatments that would be of special interest to readers of Healthcare. Thus, papers published in this Special Issue aim to significantly contribute to the literature focusing on healthcare mental health and PTSD especially relevant to mental health practitioners. This Special Issue includes, original research articles, systematic reviews, and theoretical and clinical intervention papers are welcome.
