Physical Rehabilitation in Psychiatry

Message from the Guest Editors

We are delighted to invite you to submit manuscripts to a Special Issue of the journal Healthcare entitled “Physical Rehabilitation in Psychiatry”. This Special Issue aims to enhance the understanding and implementation of physical rehabilitation in psychiatric settings. Unlike psychosocial rehabilitation, physical rehabilitation addresses the unique needs of patients within psychiatric hospitals and communities. The primary objective is to maintain and improve motor function in individuals with mental disorders who are at risk for muscle weakness, metabolic syndrome, and increased mortality due to sedentary behavior. The key areas of focus include muscle weakness, limited range of motion, nutritional status, and physical frailty. We welcome original research articles and comprehensive reviews that explore innovative interventions, effective strategies, and interdisciplinary collaborations in physical rehabilitation within psychiatric care. We look forward to receiving your valuable contributions to this important and evolving field.
