Evaluation of Interventions for Health Systems and Services Strengthening

Message from the Guest Editors

We are pleased to invite you to contribute your conceptual, methodological, and practical insights relevant to the evaluation of health interventions. This Special Issue aims to publish original research articles and reviews that present and discuss methodological innovative approaches and advances on the evaluation of health interventions. Regarding reviews, we will consider narrative, systematic, umbrella reviews, and meta-analysis that examine specific review questions, namely exploring aspects related to the evaluation process, including meta-evaluation. Studies including examples of utilization of health evaluation studies to design interventions and inform health policies, evaluability studies, and the interactions with monitoring systems are encouraged and welcome. With regard to the health interventions covered, we have adopted a broad concept that includes different types of approaches/strategies that contribute to resolving a problematic situation in specific contexts, from prevention/promotion initiatives to the implementation of a new therapy.
