Health and Wellbeing in LGBT Populations

Message from the Guest Editors

We are organising a Special Issue on LGBT health and wellbeing in the MDPI journal Healthcare (impact factor 1.916 (2019)). Improving health, wellbeing, and healthcare experiences for sexual and gender minority people around the world is an important objective. By sexual and gender minority people we include lesbian, gay. bisexual, asexual, MSM, WSW, MSWM, WSMW, trans, non-binary, intersex, gueer or other non-heterosexual and/or non-cisgender people of all ages and ethnicities. People from these groups can often suffer multiple disadvantages due to intersectional issues. Improving health and wellbeing is an important objective for all who aspire to reducing health inequities (inequalities that are considered preventable). It is important to understand the various factors that contribute to sexual and gender minority peoples' mental and physical health and wellbeing, and the mediators and moderators of these relationships. This Special Issue welcomes original contributions of relevance to this area of research. We are particularly interested in areas where little previous research has been published.
