Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue of Healthcare aims to provide clinicians and researchers with evidence-based recommendations on which interventions should be used in (culturally adapted) prevention, recognition, assessment, and treatment in suicidality and self-harm. For this Special Issue, I would like to invite you to submit original research and systematic reviews on preventive, diagnostic, prognostic, and therapeutic pathways in suicidality and self-harm. The scope includes intervention studies and studies on diagnosis and prognosis in the general population or in vulnerable groups. Both clinical studies and health service research-orientated contributions are welcome.
