

Special Issue

Cancer in Human Health and Healthcare

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue will facilitate the publication of high-quality original research and review articles pertaining to the genetic, genomic, and molecular aspects of cancer, its relation with systemic disease, and technical advances that facilitate progress in this field. The aim of this Special Issue is to provide a platform for researchers, physicians, surgeons, and academicians around the globe to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in different fields of oral cancer, especially the correlation of genetic changes with pathology and clinical presentation, and the molecular genetics of cancer predisposition. To reach a basic science and clinical multidisciplinary audience, we welcome original full-length articles, reviews, and editorials on the epidemiology, prevention, clinical features, diagnosis, treatment, and management of patients with neoplasms in the head and neck as well as its relation with systemic diseases.
