Message from the Guest Editors

The Special Issue entitled “Incentive and Market Perspectives in Health Care” in the International Journal of Environmental Research and Public Health, Section Health Economics aims to publish high-quality research articles contributing to a better understanding of health care markets. Its scope includes, but is not limited to, topics on consumer and provider interactions, health insurance, government policy and regulation, and health care market design. We welcome original scientific contributions employing rigorous theoretical modelling, state-of-the-art empirical methods, or behavioral experiments.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Addressing the environmental and public health challenges requires engagement and collaboration among clinicians and public health researchers. Discovery and advances in this research field play a critical role in providing a scientific basis for decision-making toward control and prevention of human diseases, especially the illnesses that are induced from environmental exposure to health hazards. IJERPH provides a forum for discussion of discoveries and knowledge in these multidisciplinary fields. Please consider publishing your research in this high quality, peer-reviewed, open access journal.
