Dear Colleagues,

The oral health of the elderly patient is of great importance to the geriatric patient. This Special Issue will focus on fixed and removable prosthetic rehabilitation, on the masticatory efficiency of the edentulous patient and post-surgical defects, on the use of new technologies in prosthetic rehabilitation and on the use of new biomaterials and nanomaterials. Increased life expectancy requires constant updating and development of oral rehabilitation methods that can guarantee the wellbeing of the elderly patient. Full papers of original articles and review articles are welcome.
