Message from the Guest Editors

Building on the successes of previous RCMI national and international symposia on health disparities, the 2019 RCMI Program National Conference highlighted the importance of basic, clinical, and population science collaborations to address minority health and health disparities. Hence, the overarching goal of the conference was to advance the science of minority health and health disparities through development and implementation of collaborative solutions to improve minority health and reduce health disparities.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Addressing the environmental and public health challenges requires engagement and collaboration among clinicians and public health researchers. Scientific discoveries and advances in this research field play a critical role in providing a rational basis for informed decision-making toward control and prevention of human diseases, especially the illnesses that are induced from environmental exposure to health hazards.

IJERPH provides a forum for discussion of discoveries and knowledge in these multidisciplinary fields. Please consider publishing your research in this high quality peer-reviewed journal.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, PubMed, MEDLINE, PMC, Embase, GEOBASE, CAPus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank: CiteScore - Q1 (Public Health, Environmental and Occupational Health)
