Topical Advisory Panel Members' Collection Series: Exercise Physiology

Message from the Guest Editors

We are pleased to announce this Special Issue titled “Topical Advisory Panel Members' Collection Series: Exercise Physiology”. This Special Issue will include papers from researchers invited by Topical Advisory Panel Members. Exercise physiology interventions can prevent or manage disease or injury, as well as assist in restoring physical function and fitness. These interventions are exercise-based and include health and physical activity education and lifestyle modifications. This Special Issue aims to provide a venue for networking and communication between IJERPH and scholars in the field of exercise physiology. All papers will be published with full open access after peer review.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Addressing the environmental and public health challenges requires engagement and collaboration among clinicians and public health researchers. Scientific discoveries and advances in this research field play a critical role in providing a rational basis for informed decision-making toward control and prevention of human diseases, especially the illnesses that are induced from environmental exposure to health hazards.

IJERPH provides a forum for discussion of discoveries and knowledge in these multidisciplinary fields. Please consider publishing your research in this high quality peer-reviewed journal.
