

Special Issue

Sleep, Electric Media Usage and Related Problems

Message from the Guest Editors

This special issue of International Journal of Environmental Research and Public Health focuses on the current state of knowledge on sleep, electric media usage, and related problems. New research papers, reviews, and case reports are welcome, as are papers dealing with new approaches to the risk assessment and management of electric media usage. Other acceptable manuscript types include methodological papers, position papers, brief reports, and commentaries. We will accept manuscripts from different disciplines, including sleep science, sleep medicine, epidemiology, nursing, education, and psychology, as well as from professionals dealing with the risks and health impacts of electric media usage.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Addressing the environmental and public health challenges requires engagement and collaboration among clinicians and public health researchers. Scientific discoveries and advances in this research field play a critical role in providing a rational basis for informed decision-making toward control and prevention of human diseases, especially the illnesses that are induced from environmental exposure to health hazards.

IJERPH provides a forum for discussion of discoveries and knowledge in these multidisciplinary fields. Please consider publishing your research in this high quality peer-reviewed journal.
