

Special Issue

Behavioral Health in Adolescence and Young Adults

Message from the Guest Editors

We invite specialist colleagues to send their contributions to this topic, with an unequivocal psychoeducational, psychosocial, or clinical psychology vision, involved in behavioral health. It is essential to advance in the knowledge of evidence-based programs and their results. This will contribute to the scientific-professional knowledge of reliable and valid programs of a psychological nature in order to advance in a behavioral vision, complementary to the biomedical vision, of current health problems, both chronic and non-chronic.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Addressing the environmental and public health challenges requires engagement and collaboration among clinicians and public health researchers. Scientific discoveries and advances in this research field play a critical role in providing a rational basis for informed decision-making toward control and prevention of human diseases, especially the illnesses that are induced from environmental exposure to health hazards.

IJERPH provides a forum for discussion of discoveries and knowledge in these multidisciplinary fields. Please consider publishing your research in this high quality peer-reviewed journal.
