Environmental Diseases

Message from the Guest Editor

The Special Issue on “Environmental Diseases” is proposed by IJERPH in cooperation with the Southern Italy Hospital Institute for the Environment (I.O.S.), Naples, Italy. It aimed at publishing original articles, mini-reviews, systematic reviews, and metanalyses addressing the topic of environmental influences on human health. Specifically, the Special Issue will focus on: - Environmental threats to human health - Air/soil/water pollution and human health - Exposure to environmental pollutants and their effects on human organ pathophysiology - Epidemiological Observational studies (case-control or cohort studies or surveys on dataset)

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Addressing the environmental and public health challenges requires engagement and collaboration among clinicians and public health researchers. Scientific discoveries and advances in this research field play a critical role in providing a rational basis for informed decision-making toward control and prevention of human diseases, especially the illnesses that are induced from environmental exposure to health hazards.

IJERPH provides a forum for discussion of discoveries and knowledge in these multidisciplinary fields. Please consider publishing your research in this high quality peer-reviewed journal.
