Financing Sport and Leisure: Contemporary Issues and Prospects

Message from the Guest Editors

Sport has become the most widely developed social and economic phenomenon engaging the majority of social, corporate, and non-governmental organizations. This complex social and economic function presents unique idiosyncrasies and a wide spectrum of information that has to be gathered in order to comprehend the financing and management of sport activities. The business sector has been largely attracted around sports operations, emphasizing the need for highlighting the wider spectrum of the sports-related market function in depth. Financing the business side of sport has created a diverse area of contemporary development, commerce, and marketing patterns that require exposure in order to facilitate this process more effectively. For this reason, the current Special Issue on “Financing Sport and Leisure: Contemporary Issues and Prospects” aims to provide researchers and practitioners with novel research outputs on several aspects of financing and funding sport and leisure activities, as well as businesses operations within this sector...

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I'm thrilled to take the leadership reins of the International Journal of Financial Studies and welcome the opportunity to make it one of the vanguard open-source scientific journals in our field. I eagerly look forward to working with the journal editorial team in building upon the quality instilled by my predecessor to develop the title further and broaden the appeal to other new finance research areas while keeping our core a high-quality finance journal that serves and highly values the scientific community, readers and authors alike. IJFS aims to publish high-quality manuscripts in both theoretical and empirical finance spanning all the major research areas in the field. It aims to provide an outlet for original finance scholarly research that promotes interaction among finance scholars and practitioners and bridges the divide that can exist between them.
