

Special Issue

Spatial Information for Improved Living Spaces

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue covers the crucial roles of advanced spatial information and geospatial technologies in improving living spaces' quality and sustainability. Studies on spatial information for improving living spaces require interdisciplinary knowledge and technologies in various fields, such as spatial data representation, artificial intelligence, geo-computation, and digital twins. This topic is crucial for addressing complex challenges related to urban and regional development, public health, and environmental sustainability. Improving living spaces is essential for making well-informed decisions and fostering innovation in the public and private sectors. It also plays a significant role in driving progress, leading to more the growth of livable communities. This Special Issue will support the ISPRS TC IV Symposium 2024 in Perth, Australia. ## About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The ISPRS International Journal of Geo-Information invites you to submit research articles, reviews, and reports covering topics of the whole domain of geo-information. Although the journal was only founded in 2012, it has already achieved wide recognition in the scientific community. We are proud that since April 2015, our journal is indexed by the SCIE of the Web of Science. As Editor-in-Chief, I encourage you to consider IJGI for your scientific papers and would be pleased to welcome you as authors.
