Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

Several inflammatory diseases and neoplasms are becoming more common in aging populations throughout the world. The clinically used anti-inflammatory or anti-cancer drugs suffer from the disadvantage of side effects, high cost of treatment and in some cases restricted availability. Natural products play a significant role in human health in relation to the prevention of inflammatory conditions as well as malignant tumours. Natural products can also be used in supplementary treatment or be the source for the development of new therapeutical agents. The present Special Issue will focus on anti-inflammatory and anti-cancer natural products belonging to different chemicals and showing attempts to enumerate the possible leads for further drug development.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, and molecular biophysics. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, MEDLINE, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Organic Chemistry)
