Channels and transporters are membrane proteins that mediate the traffic of water, ions, and solutes across biological membranes and are crucial to maintaining homeostasis assuring cell survival upon intracellular or environmental stress. This Special Issue “Channels and transporters in cells and tissues” will focus on the function and regulation of membrane transport proteins across all living organisms, including their potential as drug targets. Authors are invited to submit original research and review papers addressing the topic of this Special Issue.

Keywords

- Membrane transport and regulation
- Structure–function relationship
- Water, ions, and solutes transport
- Membrane permeability
- Osmoregulation
- Chemical modulation
- Therapeutic application
- Drug discovery
- Disease
- Prokaryotic and eukaryotic cells

Message from the Editorial Board

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed by the Science Citation Index Expanded (Web of Science), MEDLINE (PubMed), Scopus and other databases.

Rapid Publication: manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision provided to authors approximately 16.2 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.5 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the second half of 2019).
