New Targets and Approaches for the Treatment of Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders

Message from the Guest Editors

The main goal of this Special Issue is to provide information on recent approaches in the development of efficient therapies and prevention measures for Alzheimer's disease and related neurodegenerative diseases (such as dementia with Lewy bodies, Parkinsonism, ALS, frontotemporal dementia, etc.). Special attention will be paid to newly discovered biological structures involved in diseases pathogenesis as potential targets for pharmacological intervention, new biologically active compounds and therapeutic strategies, based on recent achievements in medicinal chemistry, molecular biology and biotechnology.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
