

Special Issue

Molecular Mechanisms and Neural Circuits in Behavioral Neuroscience

Message from the Guest Editors

The Special Issue is assisted by Dr. Lucy Babicola (IRCCS Fondazione Santa Lucia).

We welcome contributions including original experimental, theoretical, and computational studies that offer new insights into biochemical and molecular aspects characterizing both normal and pathological manifestations. Pure clinical studies are not suitable for this Special Issue, although clinical submissions featuring molecular experiments are welcome. We invite contributions from intersecting disciplines to assist in the implementation of targeted and tailored pharmacological interventions and possibly the identification of molecular fingerprints linked to risk/protective factors and therapy outcomes.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, and molecular biophysics. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
