Unravelling Interactions between Amyloid Beta (A β) and Key Pathological Features of Alzheimer's Disease

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue will explore the molecular interactions between A β and the rest of the defining features of AD, such as tau pathology, neuroinflammation, synaptic dysfunction, energy metabolism, and related mechanisms. By fostering a deeper understanding of the interplay between multiple AD processes, we hope to uncover potential therapeutic targets and innovative strategies for tackling this devastating disease. This special issue is supervised by and assisted by our Topical Advisory Panel Member Dr. Malamati Kourti (European University Cyprus, Nicosia, Cyprus).

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, and molecular biophysics. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
