Insights into Chronic Liver Disease and Hepatocellular Carcinoma

Message from the Guest Editor

Chronic liver diseases, spanning a spectrum from metabolic disorders to viral hepatitis, have become a significant global health challenge, impacting millions of individuals worldwide. Hepatocellular carcinoma (HCC), a major consequence of chronic liver diseases, stands as a leading cause of cancer-related morbidity and mortality. The rising prevalence of these conditions underscores the critical need for publishing advanced insights to inform diagnostic, prognostic, and therapeutic strategies. This Special Issue, supervised by and assisted by our Topical Advisory Panel Member Dr. Stavros P. Papadakos (National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Greece), aims to significantly contribute to our understanding of liver-related health challenges. By fostering research on these key themes, this Special Issue aspires to enhance global efforts in the diagnosis, treatment, and prevention of chronic liver diseases and HCC.
