Ocular Inflammation and Diseases: Infections, Pathogenesis, Drug Delivery and Treatments

Message from the Guest Editor

In recent years, significant attention has been given to the role of inflammation in ocular pathologies. Inflammation constitutes a fundamental mechanism not only in ocular infections and uveitis but also in numerous other ocular conditions, ranging from ocular surface alterations to retinal diseases, where low-grade chronic inflammation plays a decisive part. Delving into the role of inflammation in all ocular pathologies is of paramount importance as it allows us to gain a better understanding of the mechanisms of such pathologies, enabling us to improve their therapeutic management. Therefore, this Special Issue aims to gather research that delves into the theme of inflammation in ocular diseases, with a particular focus on etiology, pathogenesis, diagnosis, and therapeutic management.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
