

Special Issue

Advanced Optical Materials: From Materials to Applications

Message from the Guest Editor

The interaction between light and optical materials are widely studied, since advanced optical materials have shown outstanding properties. Our Special Issue will include various types of not only preparation of optical materials but also applications of optical materials. This Special Issue will provide a range of original contributions detailing the advanced optical materials from materials to applications- Plasmonic Materials- SERS Substrate- Fluorescence Materials- Carbon Materials - Meta materials- Advanced optical materials for bio, energy, LED and so on.
