Drug Discovery: Natural Products and Compounds

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to highlight recent advances in drug discovery from natural products and bioactive compounds. Given their chemical diversity and biological activity, natural products from medicinal plants, marine organisms, and microorganisms continue to offer valuable scaffolds for the development of novel therapeutics against cancer, infections, inflammation, and metabolic diseases. We particularly encourage studies involving advanced analytical techniques, in silico modeling, biosynthesis, synthetic modification, and innovative delivery systems.

This Special Issue is supervised by and , with the assistance of our Topical Advisory Panel Member (University of Naples Federico II, https://www.mdpi.com/journal/ijms/topical_advisory_panel?search=Vincenzo+Piccolo).

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access:

free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, MEDLINE, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) / CiteScore
- Q1 (Organic Chemistry)
