Bridging the Omics of Protein Landscape of Aging and Disease: New Insights and Opportunities

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue will highlight recent advances in proteomic methodologies and applications that bridge fundamental research on aging with clinical translation. By integrating proteomics with other OMICS and advanced bioinformatics approaches, this collection aims to provide a comprehensive view of how age-dependent proteome alterations contribute to disease onset and progression. We welcome submissions that explore mechanistic insights and candidate protein biomarkers or therapeutic targets to counteract age-related diseases. We are actively seeking a proteomics expert to join us as a co- for this Special Issue.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access:

free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, MEDLINE, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) / CiteScore
- Q1 (Organic Chemistry)
