Molecular Biomarkers in Cancer and Chronic Inflammation: New Therapeutic Approaches

Message from the Guest Editors

Cancer cells, as well as peritumoral and inflammatory ones, engage in well-orchestrated interplays to form an inflammatory tumor-driven microenvironment, often associated with drug resistance during treatment. The crosstalk between inflammatory biomarkers and the intrinsic properties of tumor cells have been identified as a pivotal regulator of tumor initiation and progression. This Special Issue will include some of the current and interesting advances on molecular and biochemical markers/targets in different tissues and will include gene expression, protein, and biochemical pathways, such as key regulators in inflammation and cancer signaling.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access:

free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, MEDLINE, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) / CiteScore
- Q1 (Organic Chemistry)
