Developments in Drug Discovery: Computational and Experimental Aspects

Message from the Guest Editors

we invite original research and review articles on drug discovery. The “Molecular Pharmacology” Section aims to publish the latest developments in cellular and molecular pharmacology with a major emphasis on the mechanism of action of novel drugs, innovative pharmacological technologies, cell signaling, transduction pathway analysis, genomics, proteomics, and metabolomics applications to study drug action.

This Special Issue is committed to providing an overview in recent topics and developments from the broad field of drug discovery research. This can include findings of new molecular targets, novel modulators of activity of established targets as well as descriptions of promising methods that could enrich the portfolio of available drug discovery techniques.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
