Development, Characterization and Applications of Novel Polymeric Materials and Composites: 2nd Edition

Message from the Guest Editors

In this sense, we propose catalyzing an effort to present experimental or theoretical model research activities in the field of polymeric or composite materials, in a way that identifies as many interdisciplinary bridges as possible, starting from the idea of development and characterization to be exploited by the scientific and economic community through diagnostic and therapeutic applications. For this objective, we want to reach the following targets:

- Theoretical models;
- Molecular simulations;
- New polymers;
- New composite materials;
- Characterization of the proposed materials;
- New applications of existing polymer materials and composites;
- Diagnostic and therapeutic applications.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, and molecular biophysics. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
