Blueprints of Enzymatic Function and Structure in Biocatalysis

Message from the Guest Editor

In this Special Issue of the International Journal of Molecular Sciences, entitled "Blueprints of Enzymatic Function and Structure in Biocatalysis", we delve into the intricate relationship between enzyme structure, kinetics, and thermodynamics in the realm of biocatalysis. Enzymes, as nature's catalysts, play a vital role in accelerating biochemical reactions, and a deeper understanding of their structural and thermodynamic blueprints is essential for innovations in synthetic biology, pharmaceuticals, and industrial applications. This Special Issue aims to present cutting-edge research on enzyme engineering, mechanistic pathways, and the kinetic and thermodynamic principles that govern enzyme efficiency, shedding light on the design of more effective and sustainable biocatalysts.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, and molecular biophysics. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access:

free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, MEDLINE, Embase, CAPus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Organic Chemistry)
